This is a decade old program that has served the state well to allow for minimal disruption of marine ecosystem and ocean floor habitat as well as promoting local ownership and control of the state issued permits so that Coastal Villages Region Fund Corp and several smaller Alaskan scallopers can participate in the fishery. These fisheries were once owned and controlled by entirely out of state interests and would likely revert to such control if the Program were to sunset. In the past without the Vessel License Limitation program, boats like the Mr. Big from North Carolina came into Alaskan waters and scooped up all the quota. The hope is for the Korean Hair Crab fishery to be renewed and opened. In the meantime, it is likely that without the Vessel License Limitation the ADFG would close the fishery.
